The daily press has recognized the good work of the H. C. H. S. team this year in an article which states the following:

The Honey Creek lads have been handicapped in building a strong five by not having any gym of their own to practice or play in, but in the face of this handicap they have been able to win several games.

The Blue and White boys have worked their best for their coach. Farmer and Parr have been taking care of the scoring end of the game, and they have been doing it in good shape. Both of these lads are fast and snappy and they are not afraid to "bust" in. Austin, center, is a player of no mean ability and he has been playing a consistent brand of ball all season.

Evans and Brown have been keeping the opposing sharpshooters at a distance. The entire five has the reputation of being hard fighters, and they don't give up till the final gun sounds. Coach Dowell had three likely subs on his squad. W. Evans is a classy little forward and in the games he has played he has made his presence felt. Wilkinson has been working some at guard, and Murphy is a coming center.

Our Basketball Team

Charles Parr is a forward's name,
Conquers the guards and makes 'em tame.
If you wonder where he got his fame,
Keep your eyes peeled in this evening's game!

Bill Farmer, a forward, makes the goals
Makes other guards look like telegraph poles.
Fast as a deer, and sly as a fox,
Puts the goose eggs in his opponent's box.

Bill Austin, captain, and center of Honey Creek team,
Yells and hollos and lets off steam.
When the score is tied, or we're behind,
The center of the basket he will always find.

Joe Evans is the team's pride,
Took five games to find his stride,
Holds 'em down and guards 'em tight,
All he knows is fight! fight! fight!

We have Carl Brown, niftiest guard in the state,
He makes the hopeful subs just wait, wait, wait.
When he makes a goal, the fans with a grin,
Yell and howl for him to do it again.

There is Walt Evans, his emblem a head o'red,
When a player is hurt he is put in instead.
Many a game was won by his fleet joints,
When we were badly in need of points.

There is Harry Wilkinson, of football fame,
Now folks, you may not have heard his name,
For he is very modest and very polite,
And holds down the rough ones that want to fight.

We have Earl Murphy for a substitute,
Attended every game and now has a suit,
Smallest man on the team, just five feet, one,
And his renown as a player has just begun.

Senior Baseball Letter Men

- Wayne Gormong, "Gormy" will testify that rare ability is often obscured by modesty.
 Walt Evans has red hair presumably gotten from the fire of opposing batsmen. Walt is a fine fellow (Remember the time he set the gang up twice on the proceeds of a lucky investment) May your luck never wane, Red.
 Malcolm Anders, he of the artist's hair, can be seen any day galloping over 3rd base catching flies of several varieties.
 Bill Austin, the sheik of our ball club, is so long that in an emergency he can touch all four bases at once thus being the only player who has ever made two unassisted double plays simultaneously.
 Harvey Kesler, "Kes", at the keystone sack is supposed to plug up all holes in the infield and incidentally, to check up on the umpire.
 Carl Brown, Brownie, our old southpaw, usually is invincible after the "first half." He could pitch a shut out game if he only had two or three innings start. He has the captaincy which gives him the honor of being "bat boy" in the picture.

Act well your part; there all the honor lies.
