

Lottie Tyler: "Is the editor-in-chief particular?"

Sara Cantrell: "Say! He raves if he finds a period upside down!"

Amelia Dragon (In freshman English class): "I saw the queen of Roumania yesterday."

Miss Furry: "And does she really have blue hair and golden eyes?"

Can You Imagine

Mildred Evans without some shiek?
 Evelyn Bell without rosy cheeks?
 Wayne Fox with the cut-out closed?
 Joseph Evans studying his history lesson?
 Hubert Arvin with his hair combed slick?
 Georgia Boyll short and fat?
 Sara Cantrell with bobbed hair?
 Forrest Beall saying "I don't know?"
 May Menning with long hair?
 Agnes Shoemaker with her hair straight?
 Wayne Fox with his mouth shut?
 Wayne Gormong flirting with the girls?
 Paul Bailey being a judge?
 Lillian Champ without cosmetics?

Mildred Leach with red hair?
 Imogene Smith in a short dress?
 Harry Wilkinson staying awake all day?
 William Nilson in short trousers?
 Allen Grooms without his eye-glass?
 Belva Myles disobeying the second commandment?
 Miss Furry in glasses?
 Cecil Nichols being present every day for a month?
 Harvey Kesler hopping school?
 Mr. Klatte giving an A in physical geography?
 Juanita Harlan trying to be dignified?
 Martha Anthony quiet in domestic science?

I wonder:

If Lillian Champ doesn't ever fall down with those high heels.
 How Walter Evans would look with black hair.
 What Liz Vencel's going to do now that the teachers have put a ban on powdering in classes.
 If Carl Brown isn't a perfect man of leisure.
 Who Miss Beckwith is in love with.
 How smart the seventh grade think they are.
 If Anna and Harvey are getting serious.
 If Miss Furry was ever as mean as the freshman girls.
 Why Julia Pugh doesn't act like her sister.
 If the teachers wouldn't feel relieved if Fish would stop asking questions.
 Why they didn't build the school closer to the store.

A merry heart doeth good like medicine.

Hattie Harrington—"Does the moon affect the tide?"

Georgia Boyll (thinking of the night before)—"No it only affects the untied."

Junior—"Why does my hair have so much electricity in it?"

Freshman—"Because it is connected with a dry cell."

Miss Beckwith: "I am tempted to give this class a test."

Wayne Fox: "Yield not to temptation!"

Student: "I don't know whether that was the first Bell or second Beall."

Miss Altekruise: "Who's the speaker of the house?"

Meek-looking freshman: "Mother!"

Mr. Dowell: "Anna, how may heat be produced?"

Anna: "By friction, rubbing my hands together, for instance."

Mr. Dowell: "That's good. Now, Harvey, tell me how else you might produce heat."

Harvey: "By holding them——"

Mr. Dowell (breaking in): "I beg pardon!"

Harvey: "—over the fire!"

Hubert Arvin (in Caesar class): "I don't know."

Miss Furry: "You are a fine student, you are! Here I have taught you all I know and still you don't know anything!"

Lillian Champ: "Father, he thinks I am the best girl in town. Shall I ask him to call?"

Frank Champ: "Naw, keep him thinking so!"

Maxine McCollum: "I'm glad to see you. I have just got up from my beauty sleep."

Bill Nilson: "I'm a little early then, hadn't you better rest some more?"

Farmer: "Hiram, do you hear that tractor?"

Hiram: "Aw, that's just the Honey Creek Orchestra practicing!"

(This theme was found in the hall. It is thought that Wayne Fox is the author).

benjeman franklin was borned in Massachusetts, Virginia in 1453. He was the ninteenth son of a family of seventeen children; his father was a printer but benjeman, he was a soap boiler, and he got tired and he run away i forgot where but i think it was London, he lived with his bruther for awhile, but he wasn't good to his bruther and he made him leave. benjeman was a printer fer awhile i wouldn't wan to be a printer but he did, and he invented a newspaper, and he invented lightnin', and he dun lots of smart things. the only thing he dun that wasn't smart was to git married, and he didn't know any better till i wuz o late. Onct he went to indianapolis and went up the street eating, but he didn't care what people hought of him. He's the smartest man ever lived only teddy Roosevelt and socrates. He was a honest man cause he cut down his father's cherry tree and sez i dun it with my hatchet. After he lived a long time he died in 1600 cause he was shot in a theatre by a man named booth.

And young and old come forth to play.
